Alexis Dattilo is Director of National Accounts for Chelsea Group, Ltd., a leading firm in building science consulting. With Chelsea Group she coordinates projects for clients, keeping them on track and working together to negotiate changes and meet project goals. Working with major national real estate companies, she organizes the collection of facility screening and assessment data. She analyzes this data and assembles and delivers property reports. Her projects range from evaluating single buildings to managing the assessment of large multi-facility portfolios for sustainability performance and LEED certification. Ms. Dattilo serves as primary liaison between clients and the Chelsea Group team and leads regular client update meetings.

Before joining Chelsea Group, Ms. Dattilo worked as a Mutual Funds Wholesaler at ING Investment Management. She also served as the department lead for ING Goes Green, their corporate environmental initiative. On this committee, she coordinated implementation of sustainability procedures and recycling programs, and led her site in maintaining an environmentally friendly office. She played a key role in organizing the 2008 ING Goes Green Week, for which she solicited co-worker pledges, organized a lights out campaign and a recycling contest, and hosted an office-wide green expo.

Ms. Dattilo is a Green Building Certification Institute (GBCI) LEED Green Associate. She earned her Bachelor of Science degree in Marketing with an emphasis in International Business from the W.P. Carey School of Business at Arizona State University.
